The Metropolis; its Boundaries, Extent, and Divisions for Local Government. By Joseph Fletcher, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, Honorary Secretary.

[Read before the Statistical Society of London, 19th February and 18th March, 1844.]*
The outer boundary of the Police Courts Districts, which the considerations enumerated in the preceding part of this paper will, I think, lead us to adopt as that of the Metropolis, at least for the present, completely encircles the whole of the metropolitan boroughs, inclusive of Greenwich, and all the other districts which have been described; and it marks out, with geographical accuracy, the great vale filled by the metropolis and its suburbs, which is bounded on the east by Shooter's Hill; on the south by the hills of Norwood and Streatham; on the west by those of Wimbledon and Roehampton; on the north by those of Kensal Green, Kilburn, Hampstead, Highgate, and Hornsey; and on the east by the Marshes of the Lea and the Thames.†

Some idea of the wild state of this vale during all the earlier history of London, and some conception of the value once attached to the citizens' most ancient privilege of hunting in Middlesex and Surrey, may be derived from the fact that one hundred (tantamount originally to a city ward), comprises the whole of the Middlesex portions of the metropolis lying beyond the Cities and Liberties of London and West-

* For the earlier portion of this paper, see p. 69.

† The southern and least populated parts of the parishes of Lambeth and Camberwell lie, it is true, beyond this boundary; but their omission is not noticed in the text, because it has been for some time in the contemplation of Government to include them in the district of another police court, to be erected in addition to those hereafter enumerated, for parts of Lambeth, Kennington, Clapham, Camberwell, and Brixton. For the site of this court, the Commissioners of Metropolitan Police have at last fixed upon a spot in the Kennington-road, near the Zoological Gardens.

minster, and contains, likewise, beyond the limits now assigned to it, the parishes of Hornsey, Finchley, and Barnet on the north, and those of Willesden, Ealing (with New Brentford), and the extra-parochial precinct of Twyford Abbey on 'the west. This is the hundred of Ossulstone, deriving its name from some now extinct village or manor, and divided into the Tower Division, wholly included within our boundary; the Finsbury Division, which includes also the outlying parishes to the north above mentioned; the Holborn Division, wholly included in the present boundary; and the Kensington Division, which comprises also the outlying places to the west. So, likewise, in Surrey, the whole of the southern parts of the metropolis lying outside the Borough of Southwark, are included in the one hundred of Brixton, likewise divided into the Eastern Division and the Western Division, in which latter is included also the parish of Mortlake, excluded from our adopted boundary, apparently as being a suburb of Richmond. The portion of Kent which it includes, and which comprises the whole of the arsenal portion of the town and its suburbs, is the one complete hundred of Blackheath, in the Lathe of Sutton at Hone.

The detail into which the description of the boundaries of the metropolis has been carried, showing, as it does, the successive aggregations by which so vast a whole has been formed, is, in fact, an essential part of any notice of its divisions; and explains, without a further effort, how it has come to pass that the "parishes" (divisions of the same name and origin throughout the metropolis) possess an entirely different municipal character, according to their situation within or without the "City." The small parishes of the City have, from time immemorial, been divided among the several wards (sections having the character of the ancient hundreds) in the manner already described; and these wards have always formed the basis of the whole municipal sys-But as rural parishes in the surrounding hundreds became filled with houses, the old division by hundreds could not supply to them, in combination with the still pastoral districts with which they were connected, the services of municipal government rendered by the wards of the City; for this progress of population is so recent, that when it occurred there was remaining no flexibility in the old system to adapt itself to the modern wants, which have called the mere vestries and petty officers of the parishes outside the City into a municipal importance fully equal to that of the wards within it. They now, in fact, unite most of the characteristics of both the wards and parishes in the City.

The parishes within the city, therefore, are in a more subordinate position municipally than those of any other part of the metropolis; being, in fact, in that for which their very imperfect organization was originally designed. The wards there form the integral divisions at the basis of all other local government; and therefore claim the first place in the following enumeration table. Analogous to these, in modern importance, are the metropolitan parishes without the City, which are next enumerated under the heads of the ancient territorial divisions of the counties to which they have continued to belong from the time when they were remote in the fields; divisions, however, which are now rather matter of history than available for any modern purpose of local government. The accompanying statements of the area, population, houses, rental, poor's rates, county rates, and police rates of each ward within the City, and of each metropolitan parish without its limits, contain, however, the data from which some notion of every combination of these integral divisions may be gathered.—See Tables, pp. 106—115.

The Corporation Commissioners did not interpret the terms of their instructions, "to inquire into the several local jurisdictions existing within the limits of all corporate towns," to prescribe investigations without the "City," though the latter by itself seems scarcely to form a "corporate town" under the terms of the Commission, which evidently contemplated the whole of every town in which there existed a municipal corporation; a sense in which they were read in every other city and borough. Without such investigations, the materials for legislation upon the municipal affairs of the metropolis to any purpose of general be enefit must remain fatally defective, notwithstanding any amount of exertion on the part of individuals; for they cannot supply that unimpeachable evidence which alone could warrant the effective interference of the Legislature.

In the reports upon other cities, the supplemental trusts for paving, cleansing, lighting, &c., which have grown up around the old corporations, are briefly described. But not a word is to be found concerning the crowd of such trusts under which each successively created suburb of London beyond the City and Liberties, fell, so soon as the absence of all provision for these commonest services became intolerable. Until the institution of the new police, the local watch was also under the charge of these trusts; but since its withdrawal their powers are limited to precisely the same services for which the consolidated rate is levied by the City Commissioners of Sewers; viz., the paving, lighting, and cleansing only of the streets.

These trusts are of various origin, dissimilar constitution, and frequently conflicting powers. A large proportion are simply the vestries of the parishes, or committees of those vestries, infected with all the vices exhibited by the parliamentary inquiry concerning vestries in 1830; the Act of the 1st and 2nd of William IV., c. 76, commonly called Hobhouse's Act, establishing popularly chosen select vestries (elected by lists in gross) having been adopted only by five parishes in the metropolis; viz., those of St. George Hanover-square, St. James Westminster, St. John the Evangelist Westminster, St. Marylebone, and St. Pancras. All the other parishes, in which there are select vestries, have them regulated either by express local acts, or by the 59th of George III., c. 12, permitting and regulating the appointment of a permanent committee out of each vestry; not, however, until the 58th of George III., c. 68, under which the open vestries still remain, had re-modelled the constitution of these, by giving to every rate-payer assessed at more than 50%. a vote for every additional 251., to the number of six.

In many parishes, however, the paving, cleansing, and lighting, and the levying of rates to meet these services, is vested, not in the vestries, but in Boards of Commissioners or Trustees, by local acts, which generally require various qualifications, by property or rating, for both electors and elected; and in some instances the qualification constitutes a commissioner or trustee without any election. Nor are these special trusts under local Acts, restricted to the limits of any particular parish; some of them, like those of the east and west divisions of Southwark, comprising several entire parishes; and others, parts of different parishes, or only a portion of one.

The above are the civil divisions of the metropolis, which are at the basis of almost all the others; and the chief purpose of the following pages is to describe the various modes in which they are combined for different purposes of local government. Districts for the purposes of paving, lighting, &c., are, however, sometimes carved out of these primary divisions, and placed under local boards, distinct from the parochial authorities or any placed over

The principal parochial and other trusts regulating the paving, lighting, and cleansing of their several districts, which made returns of their expenditure to Parliament in 1813 and 1825, are the following:— In the West of London, those of the parishes of St. Clement Danes; St. Mary-le-Strand; St. Martin in the Fields; St. Paul, Covent-garden; St. George, Hanover-square; St. James, Westminster; St. Margaret, Westminster; St. John the Evangelist, Westminster; St. Anne, Westminster; St. Marylebone; and the Savoy Precinct; with the minor districts of the South-west of St. Pancras; Grosvenor-square; Berkeleysquare; part of St. John's, Westminster; and the dispersed streets, eight in number, under the direct management of the Commissioners for Paving, &c., in Westminster, under the 11th George III., c. 22:in the North of London, those of the parishes of St. Andrew, Holborn above Bars; St. George the Martyr, Middlesex; St. Sepulchre, Middlesex; St. Bartholomew the Great and Less; St. Giles in the Fields, and St. George, Bloomsbury; St. John, Clerkenwell; St. James, Clerkenwell; St. Luke's, Middlesex; St. Mary, Islington; St. Leonard, Shoreditch; and Christchurch, Spitalfields; with the minor districts of Red Lionsquare; Charter House-square; the Rolls Liberty; Ely-place, Holborn; Middle-row; and the Liberty of Saffron-hill, Hatton-garden and Ely-rents:—in the East of London, those of the parishes of Trinity Minories, Christchurch, Middlesex; St. Mary, Whitechapel; St. Paul, Shadwell; St. Anne, Limehouse; St. John, Wapping; All Saints, Poplar; Hackney; St. Matthew, Bethnal-green; St. George in the East; St. Botolph Without Aldgate; the hamlets of Ratcliffe, Mile-end Old Town, and Mile-end New Town; the precinct of St. Catherine; the Liberty of Norton Folgate; and the minor districts of the Old Artillery-ground; Church-lane; Goodman's-fields; Ratcliffe-pavement; Wapping-pavement; Shoreditch High-street; the Commercial-road; Rosemary-lane; Whitechapel High-street; and Whitechapel-road Side:—and in the South of London, those of the parishes of Christchurch and St. Thomas, and the Clink Liberty, together with the East and West Divisions of Southwark.*

A subsequent return, in March 1831, including the suburban turnpike roads, adds nearly 60 to the above list of trusts, levying rates and tolls upon the inhabitants, and having a separate and independent management; being the greater number of those independent of parochial limits, viz. :-

The local statutes, under which all these petty corporations act, are far too voluminous and uninteresting for present dissection. The general constitution of such bodies, their endowment with powers to levy rates or tolls upon the public, and their ordinary encumbrance with debts incurred on the faith of such powers, are too well known to need explanation; while the differences between one and another of them, though very great, will not command attention, because of the comparative insignificance of each taken separately.

Nor are these the only local authorities. The Commission of Metropolis Roads, under the 7th of George IV. c. 142, has the management of the roads, formerly under 14 different trusts, on the north side of the Thames. There are commissions of sewer, pervading the whole metropolis, with powers of express taxation. The several water and gas companies are in effect corporations for particular purposes, which, through inevitable monopoly, possess an unlimited power of taxation. And the Building Act has its own officers under the magistracy.

The ancient military organization of the City of London is now extinct. The office of Lord-Lieutenant is not vested in an individual, but in a commission issued by the Crown. The Court of Lieutenancy thus constituted has been accustomed to assess a rate on the several wards for the maintenance of a staff of the train-bands; but except a pensioner or two, there now remains no vestige even of this staff. The rate was levied about once every three years on each ward, and apportioned among the rate-payers by the ward councilmen. An account of the assessment was printed with the City accounts in each year that it was laid; but the corporation had no concern with or control over its expenditure.

London now exercises its political influence, not by the arms of a posse civitatis, or those of its train-bands, but through a national public opinion, of which it is the centre, and through the constitutional agency of its representatives in parliament, of whom four are still sent, in accordance with ancient custom, by the City of London; two each by the City of Westminster and the Borough of Southwark, which latter has had its limits enlarged by the late Act to amend the representation; and two by each of the new metropolitan boroughs created by that Act, viz., Finsbury, Lambeth, Marylebone, Tower Hamlets, and Greenwich; making a total of 18 members, besides the share which the western suburbs have in the franchises of Middlesex and East Surrey. The following are the limits assigned to the several metropolitan boroughs by the Parliamentary Boundary Act:—

1. LONDON.

The whole space contained within the exterior boundaries of the Liberties of the City of London, including the Inner Temple and the Middle Temple.

2. Finsbury.

The several parishes of Saint Luke, Saint George the Martyr, Saint Giles in the Fields; Saint George, Bloomsbury; Saint Mary, Stoke Newington; and Saint Mary, Islington; the several liberties or places of Saffron Hill, Hatton Garden, Ely Rents, Ely Place, the Rolls, Glass-House Yard and the Charter House, Lincoln's Inn and Gray's Inn, the parish of Saint James and Saint John, Clerkenwell, except that part thereof which is situate to the north of the parish of Islington; those parts of the respective parishes of Saint Sepulchre and Saint Andrew, Holborn, and of Furnival's Inn and Staple's Inn respectively, which are situated without the liberty of the City of London.

3. Lambeth.

The parish of Saint Mary, Newington; the parish of Saint Giles, Camberwell, except the Manor and Hamlet of Dulwich; and also such part of the parish of Lambeth as is situate to the north of the line herein-after described, including the the extra-parochial space encompassed by such Part:

From the point at which the road from London to Dulwich, by Red Post

From the point at which the road from London to Dulwich, by Red Post Hill, leaves the point from London over Herne Hill in a straight line to Saint Matthew's Church at Brixton; thence in a straight line to a point in the boundary between the respective parishes of Lambeth and Clapham, one hundred and fifty yards south of the middle of the carriage way along Acre Lane.

4. MARYLEBONE.

The several parishes of Saint Marylebone, Saint Pancras, and Paddington.

5. Southwark.

The old Borough of Southwark, including the Mint and Manor of Suffolk; the several parishes of Rotherhithe, Bermondsey, and Christ Church; and the Clink Liberty of the parish of Saint Saviour.

6. Tower Hamlets.

The several divisions of the Liberty of the Tower, and the Tower division of Ossulstone Hundred.

7. Westminster.

The old City and Liberty of Westminster and the Duchy Liberty.

8. GREENWICH.

From the point at which the Royal Arsenal Canal at Woolwich joins the River Thames, along the said canal to the southern extremity thereof, thence in a straight line to the south-western corner of the Ordnance Storekeeper's house; thence in a straight line, in the direction of a stile in the footpath from Woolwich to Plumstead Common, over Sand Hill, to the boundary of the parish of Woolwich; thence southward, along the boundary of the parish of Woolwich to the point at which the same meets the boundary of the parish of Charlton; thence westward along the boundary of the parish of Charlton to the point at which the same turns southward, near the Dover-road; thence along the Dover-road to the nearest point of the boundary of the parish of Greenwich; thence westward along the boundary of the parish of Greenwich to the point at which the same turns abruptly to the south, close by the Dover-road; thence in a straight line, in a westerly direction, to the nearest point of the boundary of the parish of Greenwich; thence westward along the boundary of the parish of Greenwich to the point at which the same meets the boundary of the parish of St. Paul, Deptford; thence southward along the boundary of the parish of St. Paul, Deptford, to the point at which the same meets the River Thames; thence along the River Thames to the point first described.

The local authorities having express municipal limits, have been enumerated in the order which seemed best to convey an idea of their geographical importance and relations to each other. But it will now be necessary to adopt an arrangement of them according to their objects, by means of which we may arrive at some conception of them as a whole, leading us to an appreciation of the present municipal divisions of the metropolis, and of the amount and distribution of its local tax-The objects of municipal government in London, as elsewhere in England, are-1. Police and Justice; 2. Public Works and Buildings; and, 3. Public Instruction and Charity.

I. Police and Justice.—The Criminal Justice and Police of the Metropolis are virtually in the hands of the Central Government, which issues the Commission for holding the Central Criminal Court, and the Commissions of the Peace for Westminster, the Tower, Middlesex, Surrey, and Kent; appoints the Police Magistrates; and has the direct management of the Police Force, through the agency of the Commissioners in Whitehall Place. 'The only exception is the City, which has the management of its own police, and an elective magistracy, who take an inferior part in the business of the Central Criminal Court. The jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court comprises the whole of the Metropolis, as now defined, together with the remainder of Middlesex, the parishes of Richmond and Mortlake in Surrey, and a considerable tract in Essex; that of the several courts of general or quarter sessions is coterminous with the counties or liberties for which they are held; and that of the several police courts extends through the districts hereafter described, which have been severally assigned to them, in the City by the Court of Aldermen, and without its limits by the Queen in Council. For administrative purposes of police the metropolis is subdivided into districts indicated by the letters of the alphabet, in the City by the Commissioner, under the Court of Aldermen, and elsewhere by the Commissioners under the Secretary of State for the Home Department. The courts at Westminster are the courts of civil jurisdiction most resorted to; those of the City, possessing unlimited jurisdiction, have no authority beyond its limits; the several Small Debt Courts are likewise confined, by their several Acts of Parliament, within specific bounds; but the county courts have a more general application, and those of Middlesex are now held in several places, with an enlarged jurisdiction and improved process.

II. Public Works and Buildings.—Nearly the whole of the public works are in the hands of local if not of representative authorities. The drainage is divided among commissions of sewers, issued by the Crown, like commissions of the peace; the streets and roads are in the charge of the parish vestries, local boards and trusts, and the Commissioners of the Metropolitan Roads; the supply of water and of gas by the several companies is also a matter of territorial division under monopoly conventions; districts for the inspection of buildings in course of erection are appointed by the magistrates; but such works as markets, exchanges, approaches, bridges, cemeteries, the river navigation, &c. (in the hands of the corporation, of companies, and of large proprietors) have, of course, no reference to municipal divisions.

III. Public Instruction and Charity.—Public instruction, except of paupers, is not a matter of municipal provision; but the division of the metropolis for poor-law administration, with which that for the registration of births, deaths, and marriages coincides, is one of paramount importance. Its largest charitable endowments are irrespective of locality; but a great amount of gifts is devoted to the relief of the poor in particular parishes and places. Owing to the number of parishes having local Acts for the management of their poor, and other causes, however, the metropolitan system of parochial relief is on no general and well organized plan, and the districts in use are irregular in the extreme.

I. POLICE AND JUSTICE.

Criminal Jurisdiction.

The limits of the jurisdiction of the Central Criminal Court, and those assigned to the several sessions of the peace, have already been described. But the divisions for the purposes of the Police Courts, and those for police administration, require especial notice.

The City is divided into six police districts, in each of which there is a station-house; for the First Division, in Moor-lane; for the Second, in Smithfield; for the Third, in Blackhorse-court; for the Fourth, in Watling-street; for the Fifth, by the Tower; and, for the Sixth, in Bishopsgate Churchyard; each district being divided into sections, and each section into day or night beats, like those of the Metropolitan Police without the City. The area occupied by these districts is, as already described, only 600 acres; and their population, in 1841, was only 123,752.

The following table will show the distribution into police districts of the whole metropolis without the City, with the area, population, and station-houses of each. The districts are not regarded in the population abstract of the recent Census; and the proportion in which the several parishes are divided, when not wholly included in one or other of them, has therefore been made the subject of a rough estimate upon a map of the several districts. The wards into which they throw the metropolis are convenient for forming some estimate of the larger divisions for purposes of justice and public works. Attached to those externally situated are dependent rural districts, forming integral portions of them for all purposes of police, and extending in every direction to a distance of 15 miles from Charing-cross, or rather including all the parishes and places whose churches are situated within that distance.

In each division there is one superintendent, from two to six inspectors, from 14 to 30 serjeants, and a number of men varying with the exigencies of each locality. The dependent rural districts were attached subsequently to the first organization of the metropolitan police, and are managed without any increase of the superintending establishments. In the City, and in many other localities, the inhabitants still, however, subscribe to maintain a number of private watchmen, under their own direction and control, for the sake of enjoying a more familiar use of their services, and a feeling of greater security from their half domestic character. There are also in London two Societies, which, through philanthropic motives, form a voluntary police for the enforcement of particular statutes, viz., the Society for the Suppression of Vice, and the Society for the Suppression of Cruelty to Animals.

- 1. The Bow-street Police Court includes under its jurisdiction the Whitehall and Covent-garden Police Divisions (A and F), with the exception of Hyde Park in the first, and the western part of south St. Giles's in the second.
- 2. The Queen-square Police Court.—The Westminster Division (B), and the parish of Chelsea.
- 3. The Marlborough-street Police Court.—The St. James's Division (C), together with Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens, in the White-hall Division (A), and the western extremity of south St. Giles's, in the Covent-garden Division (F).
- 4. The Marylebone Police Court.—The Marylebone and Hampstead Divisions (D and S), with the remainder of the parish of St. Marylebone, and a small portion of St. Pancras, lying west of Tottenham courtroad.
- 5. The Hatton-garden Police Court.—The Holborn Division (E), with the exception of all portions of St. Marylebone, and of St. Pancras, west of Tottenham-court-road; the Islington Division (N), excepting all parts of Hackney and Shoreditch; and the Finsbury Division (G), excepting any part of St. Luke's.

6. The Worship-street Police Court.—The remainder of the Islington and Finsbury Divisions (N and G), together with Bethnal green, Spitalfields, Mile end New Town, and the Old Artillery Ground, in the Whiteshand and Stanger Divisions (H and K)

Whitechapel and Stepney Divisions (H and K).

7. The Lambeth-street Police Court.—The Whitechapel Division (H), with the exception above-mentioned, and the whole of the Stepney Division (U), with the exception of the places below enumerated as being attached to the Thames Police Court.

8. The Thames Police Court.—Part of the parish of St. George in the East, the hamlets of Ratcliffe and Mile-end Old Town, and the parishes of Bow, Bromley, and Poplar, all in the Stepney Division (K).

- 9. The Union Hall Police Court.—The Lambeth, Southwark, and Camberwell Divisions (L, M, and P), together with Bermondsey, in the Greenwich Division (R).
- 10. The Greenwich Police Court.—The Greenwich Division (R), with the exception of Bermondsey, but with the addition of the outlying parishes of Lee and Lewisham.
- 11. The Woolwich Police Court.—The remainder of the metropolitan parishes of the county of Kent.
- 12. The Hammersmish Police Court.—The Kensington Division (T), with the exception of the parishes of Paddington on the east, and Ealing, including New Brentford, on the west, but with the addition of Fulham, in the Wandsworth Division (V).
- Fulham, in the Wandsworth Division (V).

  13. The Wandsworth Police Court.—The Wandsworth Division (V), with the exception of Fulham, but with the addition of Wimbledon and Merton.

The following are the boundaries as expressly described by the Orders in Council:—

Bow-street Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say), from the river Thames at the Temple stairs westward along the said river to the north side of Westminster bridge; thence along the centre of Bridge-street in a straight line to and along the centre of Great George-street to Storey's Gate; thence along the boundary line of St. James's Park to Buckingham Gate; thence along the centre of Stafford-row to and along the centre of Arabella-place, of Lower Grosvenor-place, to Hyde Park Corner; thence eastward along the boundary of the Green Park and St. James's Park (including St. James's palace), to the west side of Spring Gardens; thence along the south and east sides of Trafalgar-square to St. Martin's-lane; thence northward along the centre thereof, and of Upper St. Martin's-lane; of Little St. Andrew's-street (including the Seven Dials). of Great St. Andrew's-street; and of King-street to Broad-street; thence eastward along the centre thereof to and along the centre of High Holborn to the boundary of the City of London, and thence southward along the said boundary to the Temple stairs aforesaid.

Queen-square Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say), from the south-west side of Westminster Bridge in a line running westward along the centre of Bridge-street to and along the centre of Great George-street to Storey's Gate; thence along the boundary line of St. James's Park to Buckingham Gate; thence along the centre of Stafford-row, of Arabella-place, of Lower Grosvenor-place, and of Grosvenor-place to Hyde Park Corner; thence westward along the Knightsbridge-road; thence south-westward along the centre of Queen's-buildings, Brompton-row, and of Michael's-place; thence along the Fulham-road to Sandford Bridge; thence southward along the Kensington Canal to the river Thames; thence eastward along the said river to the south side of Westminster Bridge.

Marlborough-street Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say), from the Victoria Gate, Hyde Park, on the Uxbridge-road, in a line running eastward along the centre of the said road, of Oxford-street, of High-street, St. Giles's, and of Broad-street to King-street; thence southward along the centre of King-street, and of Great St. Andrew-street, of Upper St. Martin's-lane, and of St. Martin's-lane to the north-east corner of Trafalgar-square; thence (including the area of the said square) to the south-west corner thereof; thence in a straight line to the west side of Spring Gardens; thence along the boundary of the St. James's and Green Parks to Hyde Park Corner; thence along the Knightsbridge-road to the park gate opposite the Camden Arms public house; thence along the boundary of Kensington Gardens (including Kensington palace and the said gardens) to the Victoria Gate, Hyde Park, on the said Uxbridge-road.

Marylebone Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say), on the south by a line commencing at Victoria Gate, Hyde Park, and extending eastward along the centre of the Uxbridge-road, and of Oxford-street; thence northward along the centre of Tottenham-court-road to the New-road; thence north-eastward along the centre thereof to Maiden-lane to the North Cemetery; thence southwestward to and including Kilburn Wells; thence south to Westbourne-green (including the same), and to the Victoria Gate, Hyde Park.

Hatton-garden Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say), from the boundary of the City of London on Holborn Hill, in a line running westward along the centre of Holborn, of Broad-street and of High-street; thence northward along the centre of Tottenham-court-road to the New-road; thence north-eastward along the centre thereof to Maiden-lane; thence northward along the centre of Maiden-lane to Hornsey-lane; thence eastward to Stamford Hill; thence southward to and along Stoke Newington, High-street; thence to and along the centre of the Kingsland-road to the Regent's Canal; thence westward along the same to the New River; thence southward along the centre of Goswell-street to Charterhouse-square; thence along the boundary of the City of London to the corner of Hatton-garden, Holborn Hill.

Worship-street Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say) from the boundary of the City of London, at the corner of Goswell-street, running northward along the centre of the same, to the City-road; thence along the centre of Duncan-terrace to the Regent's Canal; thence eastward along the same to the Kingsland-road; thence northward along the centre thereof, and of Stoke Newington, High-street, to Stamford Hill; thence south-eastward to Lea Bridge; thence along the Hackney Cut, to Old Ford-road; thence westward along the centre thereof, to, and including Bethnal-green; thence southward along Dog-row; thence westward to Spitalfields, along the centre of Princes-street and Wentworth-street, to the boundary of the City of London, at the corner of the said last-mentioned-street; and thence along the said City boundary to the corner of Goswell-street.

Lambeth-street Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say), from the Tower-stairs, on the river Thames, in a line running northward along the boundary of the City of London, to the corner of Wentworth-street; thence eastward along the centre thereof, and of Old Montague-street, Princes-street, and Northampton-street, to Cambridge-road; thence northward along the centre thereof to Old Ford Bridge; thence to and along Old Ford-road, to and including Bow, and thence to the river Lea; thence southward along the river Lea to the north-east corner of the East India Dock; thence westward along the centre of the East India Dock-road, and of the Commercial-road to the corner of Cannon-street-road; thence southward along the centre thereof, and of Cannon-street to Ratcliffe Highway; thence westward along the centre of the same and of Parsons'street to East Smithfield; thence southward to and along the centre of Nightingale-lane to Hermitage Dock; thence westward along the boundary of the river Thames to Tower stairs, including the Tower of London and the Liberty thereof; "also the space within the boundary line hereinafter named (that is to say), a line running northward from the said river Thames, at Hermitage-dock, along Nightingale-lane, to East Smithfield; thence eastward along the centre of East Smithfield, Parsons'-street, Ratcliffe Highway, and High-street, Shadwell, to Fox'slane; thence southward, along the centre of the said lane, to the river Thames, at the eastern entrance of the London Docks aforesaid; and thence westward along the line of the said river to Hermitage Dock aforesaid."

Thames Police Court.—The space included in the following boundary (that is to say), from the river Thames, at the eastern entrance of the London Docks, in a line running along the north side of the said entrance to Fox's-lane; thence northward along the centre thereof to High-street, Shadwell; thence westward along the centre thereof, and of Ratcliffe Highway, to Cannon-street; thence northward along the centre of Cannon-street, Cannon-street-road, and the New-road, to the White-chapel-road; thence eastward along the centre of the said road, and of Mile End-road, to Grove-road; thence northward along the centre thereof to the Eastern Counties Railway; thence eastward along the northern line of the said railway to the river Lea; thence southward along the said last-mentioned river to the river Thames; and thence westward along the boundary of the said river Thames to the said eastern entrance of the London Docks aforesaid.

Union Hall Police Court.—The space included within the following boundary (that is to say), from Dockhead, in a line running northward to the river Thames; thence westward along the said river to Waterloo Bridge; thence southward to Vauxhall Bridge; thence south-eastward to and along the New-road, and Bridge-street, to the Oval at Kennington; thence to and along the New Camberwell-road; thence eastward to and along Church-street, Camden-terrace, Paradise-place, and High-street, and thence to Ebenezer-place; thence northward to and along Pomeroy-street, to the Dover-road; thence to and along the Kent-road to the boundary line between the parishes of Rotherhithe and Bermondsey; and thence along the said boundary to the river Thames, and thence along the river to Dockhead aforesaid.

Greenwich Police Court.—The parishes of Greenwich, St. Nicholas Deptford, that part of St. Paul's Deptford which is within the county of Kent; the parishes of Lewisham and Lea, in the county of Kent; and Rotherhithe; that part of St. Paul's Deptford which is within the county of Surrey, and the hamlet of Hatcham, in the county of Surrey.

Woolwich Police Court.—The parishes of Plumstead, Woolwich, Charlton, Eltham, the liberty of Kidbrooke, and the hamlet of Nottingham, in the county of Kent.

Hammersmith Police Cour

Hammersmith Police Court.—The parishes of Fulham and Kensington (including so much of Brompton as has not been assigned by any Order in Council to the police court, called "Queen-square Police Court," and such part of the parish of St. Margaret, Westminster, as adjoins the hamlet of Hammersmith, and also that portion of the parish of Chelsea, commonly called Kensall-green, situate to the north side of the said parish of Kensington), the hamlet of Hammersmith; and the parishes of Acton and Chiswick, in the county of Middlesex.

Wandsworth Police Court.—The parishes of Wandsworth, Putney, Battersea, Tooting, Merton, Wimbledon, Roehampton, Barnes, and Clapham, together with so much of the parish of Streatham as comprises Upper Tooting and Balham Hill, in the county of Surrey.

Civil Jurisdiction.

The local courts of civil jurisdiction in the metropolis, besides the Palace Court, the County Court of Middlesex, with its improved jurisdiction, the Mayor's and Sheriffs' Courts in the "City," and the Bailiff's Court of Record in the "Borough," are the Courts of Conscience or Courts of Requests. These are the only courts for which the metropolis is nearly throughout divided into districts. The most ancient is that of the "City," and its jurisdiction does not extend beyond the bounds of that central district. Next after this was established the Court of Requests for Southwark, the jurisdiction of which extends over the whole of the Eastern Half Hundred of Brixton. On the west it meets that of the Wandsworth Court of Requests, which comprises the whole of the Western Half Hundred of Brixton, and on the east that of the Greenwich Court, which comprises the Kentish portion of the metropolis. To the north of the Thames, without the city's limits, the western portion of the town is included within the jurisdiction of the Westminster Court of Requests; the eastern, under that of the Tower Hamlets; and the northeastern, under that of an old manorial court, regulated by charter and statute, which is held at Hackney.

II. Public Works.

Sewerage.

For the purposes of drainage, the metropolis is placed under the jurisdiction of seven different Commissions of Sewers, the limits assigned to each of which are hereinafter stated. The sums expended give the nearest approximation to the yearly income of these Commissions, which generally make their levies at intervals of several years, so that the returns of any one year afford but very imperfect data for estimating their average income. The direct taxation for sewers thus estimated, appears to be little, if anything, short of 100,000l. per annum.

The details relating to the drainage of the town, originally comprised in this paper, will now, however, be found in the following, on the Sewerage of the Metropolis, which the writer was requested to prepare against the meeting of the 18th of March last, in enlargement of this branch of his subject, upon which the attention of the public is now so anxiously fixed.

Paving, Lighting, and Cleansing.

Every portion of the metropolis is necessarily included under some trust for the purposes of paving, lighting, and cleansing; but of the limits assigned to such trusts as are not parochial, we are without any information whatever. Their income and expenditure are equally unknown, and a great service would be rendered by any member of Parliament who should move for returns in detail, by which means the proceedings of the whole would be brought under public cognizance. Some idea of the vast sums which annually pass through their hands may be formed from the cost of paving, cleansing, and lighting in the city alone, for which the sum raised by rates, in the year ended September, 1842, was 35,098l. 2s. 6d., and the sum expended 41,945l. 6s. 7d. Supposing that the average expenditure on these objects in the rest of the metropolis were only one-half what it is in the city, in proportion to the population, it would amount to no less than 329,500l., making a total in the metropolis of about 371,500l; and it may safely be estimated at 400,000l.

Supply of Water.

The metropolis is supplied with water by nine principal and two smaller companies, whose districts of supply are described below. Subjoined is also a table of the water rental of the eight largest, and of their expenditure, in 1833, as returned to Parliament in the year following. Supposing that the ninth of any magnitude, viz., the Kent Waterworks, to have had a water rental equal to that of the Southwark Waterworks, the total water rental of the principal works, in 1833, must have been about 292,400*l.*; and, supposing the water rental in 1843 to bear the same proportion to the population of the metropolis in 1841, that the water rental of 1833 did to its population in 1831, we find the probable amount of last year's water rental to have been 344,238*l.*

New River Waterworks.—All the metropolis north of the Thames from Charing-Cross, Tottenham Court-road, and the Hampstead-road on the west, to the Tower, Shoreditch, and the Kingsland-road, with Dalston, on the east.

East London Waterworks.—All those portions of the metropolis and its suburbs which lie to the east of the City, Shoreditch, the Kingslandroad, and Dalston, together with outlying hamlets in the county of Essex, as far as West Ham.

Chelsea Waterworks.—The parishes of St. John and St. Margaret, Westminster; and the contiguous suburban parishes and places, which lie to the south and west of Charing-Cross, Pall-Mall, St. James's-street, Park-lane, and the Uxbridge road, as far as Kensington Palace, Brompton, and Chelsea.

Grand Junction Waterworks.—The great square of town included by Oxford-street, Princes-street, St. James's Park, the Green Park, and Hyde Park; the Park-square districts, between the Edgeware-road, the Uxbridge-road, and the Regent's Canal, and a considerable district in the angle between the western end of Oxford-street, and the southern end of the Edgeware-road.

West Middlesex Waterworks.—All lying west of the Tottenham Court-road and the Hampstead-road, and north of Oxford-street, the Edgeware-road, and the Regent's Canal, from the point at which the latter reaches it westward, with the exception of the district in the angle formed by Oxford-street and the Edgeware-road, which is supplied by the Grand Junction Waterworks. Likewise Bayswater, and the suburban parishes of Kensington, Fulham, Hammersmith, and Chiswick.

Southwark Waterworks.—The greater part of the borough of Southwark.

Lambeth Waterworks.—A large portion of the parishes of Lambeth, Newington, and Bermondsey.

South London, or Vauxhall Waterworks.—The outer portions of the metropolis, south of the Thames, and east of the Ravensbourne.

Kent Waterworks.—Parts of the parishes of Rotherhithe, Deptford, St. Paul and St. Nicholas Greenwich, and Woolwich.

Hampstead Waterworks.—These are old works which supply a small district about Kentish Town.

Paddington Waterworks.—These are some springs belonging to the Bishop of London's estate, which supply the immediate neighbourhood.

III. PUBLIC INSTRUCTION AND CHARITY.

Parochial Endowments and Assessments.

The statistics of Public Instruction and Charity in the metropolis, in so far as they are left to parochial endowments and poor law assessments, are contained in the following tables. But, besides the sums which there appear general charities to the amount of 297,946l. 17s. 11½d. per annum, according to the statements of the Charity Commissioners, are vested in the corporation and other trustees, including the gifts vested in the Companies, and the Royal or Corporation Hospitals. Of this amount, 70,655l. 16s. 5d. is expended upon educational purposes; and 227,291l. 1s. 6½d. in the relief of physical suffering and pecuniary distress in various forms. We have, however, no complete statements of the voluntary gifts of the Corporation and the several Companies, which are very large; of the noble voluntary charities of the metropolis, of general application; and of the numerous voluntary, parochial, and congregational charities.

the East London Union includes that portion of St. Botolph without Aldersgate parish which is called Glasshouse-yard, and belongs to the Finsbury division of the Hundred of Ossulstone, while, on the other hand, it omits the parish of Trinity in the Minories, its population being 39,653; and the West London Union, being deprived of the Whitefriars Precinct, contains a population of only 28,571. The total population of the three City Unions is thus seen to be 124,144; and to correct it to the exact population of the City within and without the walls, requires only the subtraction of 1,415 It appeared unnecessary to repeat in this Table the population of each of the City parishes, which has already been stated; but it ought to be noticed that the division into Unions does not accurately obey either the limits of the City or its division by the lines of the ancient walls. Thus the City of London Union comprises, with the ancient City within the Walls, also the Whitefriars Precinct, which makes its total population 55,920; for Glasshouse-yard, and the addition of 579 for Trinity-Minories: the result will be 123,308. Number of Houses and Inhabitants, annual Value of the Charitable Bequests, and Amount annually expended in the Relief of the Poor in each Parish of the Metropolis without the City; derived from the Census of 1841, the Returns to the Poor Law Commissioners for the year ended at Lady-day, 1842, and the Abstract of the Charity Commissioners' Reports, printed for Parliament 12 1843.

The preceding data are sufficient to afford us some approximation to the total amount raised in the metropolis, in 1842, by direct taxation upon its 1,961,810 inhabitants, and 8,082,369l. of assessed rental; and for the purposes of such an estimate, we may disregard the different periods of the year at which the accounts are made out for the Police, and for the Poor Law and County Rate Returns, as we have already disregarded them in compiling the preceding tables, with a view to comparisons which are not vitiated by this slight discrepancy. We find 111,938/. 13s. raised under the name of County Rates; 207,2021. 15s.  $3\frac{1}{2}d$ . under that of Police Rates, exclusive of the 68,1611. 15s. 4d. paid to the same account by the Treasury; and 588,884l. applied in the relief of the poor in various forms; making a total of 908,025*l*. 8s.  $3\frac{1}{2}d$ . paid by the several parishes and places, to meet which the total amount levied under the name of Poor's Rates was 877,6661. Add to this sum, about 100,000l. for Sewers' Rates; 400,000l. for paving, lighting, and cleansing the streets; and 340,000l. for a supply of water, and we have a total of 1,748,025l. 8s. levied by direct taxation. This is exclusive of church rates and dues, and the payments under the name of tithes in the city; and without any reference to the enormous charge upon the metropolis for the supply of gas to private houses and establishments. The latter may assume the name of a competitive speculation; but it is, in reality, a municipal service, and must ever, on its present system, involve both protection and monopoly.

The indirect taxation of the metropolis is alone a subject sufficiently extensive for separate inquiry. It consists of fees in the courts of civil and criminal justice, and to officers of the prisons and police; fees on licenses to ply for hire, &c.; port, navigation, and metage dues; tolls of the markets, streets, and bridges; fees to surveyors under the building act; the contributions to maintain a fire police, made by the several insurance companies; fees for the use of cemeteries, &c. Reserving a notice of this indirect taxation for a future opportunity, I have now, in obedience to the desire expressed at a former meeting, to describe more fully the system of taxation and expenditure adopted for the sewerage of the metropolis.

History and Statistics of the Present System of Sewerage in the Metropolis. By Joseph Fletcher, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, Honorary Secretary.

Having been requested, at the last meeting of this Society, to enter into more detail on the subject of the sewerage of the metropolis than was within the scope of the paper which I had then the honour of reading to the fellows assembled, I have, in the following pages, collected together the facts which supply a rapid outline of the history and present state of the Commissions, to which this portion of the public works of the metropolis is entrusted; and it must be owned that it is not a little humiliating to find that what is now deemed essentially requisite for town life in regard to drainage, has never once been contemplated by the general laws passed for the execution of such works. In fact, the legal purposes and powers of the existing Commissions of Sewers, except where a very partial aid is derived from local acts, are limited to the surface drainage of a marsh; and the metropolis is at the present
